To Whom It May Concern:

I am very pleased to write this letter of recommendation for David Deslierres and Jeff Halperin at D&H Construction. They have successfully completed an 8,780 square foot two-story senior housing facility for us to our complete satisfaction.

Our Southern Alameda County Buddhist Church (SACBC) Senior Home was a long time in coming. It took several years from developing the plans to the start of actual construction. We had been working with another general contractor prior to D&H Construction, but they could not meet our construction budget. When D&H came on the project, they produced a highly detailed and comprehensive bid proposal that we were able to review and understand. D&H Construction's bid proposal format enabled us to make intelligent decisions regarding engineering changes and project budgets.

During the project, D&H followed through with the same thoroughness and organization as their original proposal with meeting notes and construction schedules. We are very pleased that the overall project was completed on time and within budget expectations.

We are a non-profit organization and we selected two church members to work with the contractor during construction. Neither of these members had been involved in a project of this size before and D&H worked closely and very cooperatively with them to the mutual satisfaction of all parties.

The SACBC Senior Home project is now complete and the result is a very beautiful new building and facility for our seniors and caretakers. We would wholeheartedly recommend D&H for any future construction projects.

Sincerely,
